Stachamoose

...is the new show from Your Man's Puppets, which introduces us to the theatrical delights from the intrepid Stachamoose brothers, These suspiciously similar-looking brothers display an energetic mix of physical comedy and manual dexterity using a nicely balanced blend of mischievous humour and accomplished puppeteer skills.

Vlado, the magician, is the sombre, enigmatic master of arts of varying degrees of darkness, while Elmer is, in Bob Dylans' memorable phrase, really just a song-and-dance man.

The brothers are joined by Jub-Jub, variously described as that dexterous dog, performing pooch and clowning canine.

While no one of a romantic disposition will be able to resist the Hansters – part hand, part hamster – and their tale of true love.

The show is rounded out – keeping it in the family – with a special guest performance provided our local family members, after all we were all related

And it was as nice a slice of surreal humour as you're likely to witness this year.
